

June 18, 2015

Over 100 years of reaching new heights

Eric Stalmon Named Vice President, Safety and Training for The Marr Companies

South Boston, MA

Marr is very pleased to announce that Eric Stalmon has rejoined the company as Vice President, Safety and Training. Eric was previously employed by Marr from 2008 to 2011 serving as Safety Director for all four Marr entities: Daniel Marr & Son Company, Marr Scaffolding Company, Marr Crane & Rigging and Isaac Blair & Company, Inc.

Eric's career in safety management began in 1998 and today he possesses a comprehensive, working knowledge not only of current safety practices within the construction industry, but of the Marr Companies itself and the wide range of contractors and commercial customers we serve.

Eric will be responsible for providing oversight and support for all aspects of safety within Marr's Safety Program and is tasked with ensuring that programs and policies are enforced throughout the company.

Additionally, Eric will focus on training and development of Marr personnel and those customers utilizing Marr equipment. He will work to enhance our current programs and insure compliance with OSHA standards and local regulations.

Previously Eric made a meaningful impact at Marr employing a multi-faceted team approach to safety that achieved a higher level of awareness and accountability for all safety matters. His past leadership encouraged many to champion Marr's safety goals and we are excited that Eric will once again head up our safety effort.

